Coolidge In Control

President Coolidge, when he becomes president in his own right after his inauguration next March, will find himself the untrammeled administrator of the country so far as party lines are concerned. He will have a working majority in congress that will give him a free hand in affairs and he feally, we sincerely hope there is no disposition on the part of the Democratic innority toward a coalition with the "pink" and "near-red" elements that are to be found in the national assembly. There will be no excuse for them doing so. The people did not give such a mandate in the election last week

President Coolidge should surround himself with a cabinet and advisers that will make possible a realization of the great things the country apparently believes are in store for the many months to come. He should leave no stone unturned to play up to the confidence that has been reposed in him for never before has such a testimonial been given any man in this broad land

The sins of omission and commission of the past should be righted, so far as is possible, by the new administration and those over whom any semblance of shadow has been cast should be relegated to private life at the earliest possible minute.

The Republican party is overwhelmingly in control and we wish it every success for the welfare of the country. If its leaders can restablish conditions as they should be, the 12 million voters who were on the losing sides will have no complaint.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif.-Converting a cottage or a palace into a home is easy for the efficient and conscientious housewife.

Much easier than the self-appointed task of Mrs. Robert Dollar of San Rafael, whose lifework has been the making of transient homes for a husband who "commutes" around the world.

The husband is Captain Robert Dollar, head of the Dollar Line Steamship Company, who is credited with loing more than any other man in developing trade between America and the orient.

Staterooms of liners, Pullman car accommodations. hotel suites, they're all one to Mrs. Dollar. They've had to be, if she were to accomplish her purpose of keeping a happy home. Despite their financial stringency, Mrs. Dollar had paid each for her purchases. It is a habit which has never left her.

"Modern easy credit makes it much harder for young folks to save," she declares. "I believe in paying cash. This would make young couples realize that a lot of 'necessaries' are not necessary at all " THRIFT BRUNGS SUCCESS

It was this thrifty trait which enabled the Dollars to turn a very advantageous business deal early in their career. It provided the ladder steps to success, Mrs. Dollar believes a wife should be a business partner to her husband in discussing now business enterprises. Then, too which her husband is witness, she keeps herself in a buovant frame of mind, free from moods and angry fits, undiscouraged by reverses and unmindful of disconnects "In the lumber camps I learned how much of himself a man must put into achievement of success. So

This still continues The captain never is bothered with travel arrangements, or the details of social and business entertaining, nor with home problems.
